

What families have to say...

My son started playing with a Taggies blanket when he was 5 months old. Jonah's Taggies blanket has comforted him in a very scary time. He was diagnosed with leukemia at age 3. He had a very painful procedure done and the only thing he wanted, besides me, was his Taggies blanket. Throughout all of his procedures and every hospital visit, even to this day now that he is almost 6 years old (he's still on treatment), we still take his Taggies with us and he still sleeps with it at night.

Taggies has been an amazing product. My daughter has always been a wonderful sleeper and I thank Taggies for that. To this day, she still takes them to the doctors and when we do shots or need to take blood she covers her eyes she remains relaxed and doesn't even cry. She sleeps with those blankets every night and when I drop her off to school, she leaves it in the car so she has it when she comes out and is feeling a little tired. I find they calm her when she is angry or tired and help bring her back down to a relaxing calmer mood.

Your product is a miracle calmer with my almost 2-year-old daughter. When she stresses, we give her the Taggies and she sits and caresses the tags.

We thought it was time to thank you!!!!!!!!!! After looking for a gift for someone else on redenvelope.com I happened to find your Taggies blanket.. It was perfect....how did you know???......I ran to my husband, who was trying to put our 3 month old to sleep...who was clutching on to the "TAG" of his new Teddy Bear...Once the little guy was asleep we ordered the blanket ASAP. As a Physical Therapist, I know the importance of tactile stimulation in young children, but I have never seen it work as well as I have with Owen and his Taggies. (Now, almost 2 years old) He sleeps with Taggies every night...we love this product more then anything in our home and thought it was time to thank you...Thank you for understanding young children's needs...thank you for our Taggies.

I recently heard of Taggies on the Internet. I visited your website and bought a personalized "Hugs" Big TAGGIES™ right away! :) It really came in handy today when I took her for her first set of immunization shots and I had (regrettably) forgotten her pacifier...not only did both nurses and the doctor comment on it, but afterward when I wrapped her up and held her, she actually grabbed one of the tags and started sucking on it and immediately stopped crying. It was so nice to see how comforting it was to her. Thanks for such a WONDERFUL, adorable, colorful product.
